Season Outlook

For the second consecutive year, the Clemson football program enters a season hoping it can pick up where it left off the previous season. The 2004 Tigers started off 1-4, but won five of their last six games to post a winning ledger and become bowl eligible for the sixth straight year. It was the first time since 1963 that Clemson started 1-4 or worse and ended the season with a winning record.

But, to turn that momentum into a successful September of 2005 and beyond will be a challenge as the Tigers have their most difficult opening month slate in nearly 40 years. Clemson opens the season with Texas A&M, a bowl team in 2004 that defeated Clemson by three touchdowns in College Station. Clemson must then travel to Maryland before home games with Miami (FL) and Boston College to finish the month. Miami (FL) has won at least nine games six years in a row and Boston College, in its first year in the ACC, is the only school in the nation to win a bowl game five consecutive years. In November, Florida State will also come to Clemson.

"This will certainly be one of the most difficult schedules in Clemson history and might be the most difficult home schedule in history," said Head Coach Tommy Bowden, who has led Clemson to 28 ACC wins in the last six years, second only to Florida State. "The demand for tickets to our home games will be at an all-time high this year. It is a most attractive schedule and I know our players are excited about the prospect of playing so many nationally renowned programs at home."

Getting off to a good start in 2005 will also be a challenge because of the loss of eight starters from last year's team who were keys to the second half run. Clemson must replace five starters on defense, including ACC Defensive Player of the Year Leroy Hill, second leading tackler Travis Pugh, and defensive back Justin Miller, who is slated to be a high choice in the April NFL draft. Defensive linemen Mo Fountain and Eric Coleman were sound statistically, but might have been most important when it came to team leadership.

"We don't lose a lot of players on defense, but they were of high quality as players and team leaders," said Bowden. "Leroy Hill was the top defensive player in the ACC last year and was among the national leaders in making big plays (tackles for loss and sacks). Justin Miller got better and better as the year went on and will be a difficult player to replace in the secondary and as a kick returner. Travis Pugh was our second leading tackler and was a big reason we finished 12th in the nation in passing efficiency defense. Eric Coleman had an All-ACC season, especially the second half, and Mo Fountain was just a consistent player day in and day out."

The offense must overcome the loss of the ACC's leading receiver, Airese Currie, who had more than twice as many catches and yards as any other Clemson player last year. Additionally, Bowden must replace offensive line starters Cedric Johnson and Tommy Sharpe and tight end Ben Hall. All three were regulars the last three years.

"Airese Currie led the ACC in receiving and that is saying something," said Bowden. "He showed what he could do if he remained healthy for a complete season. We also must replace three outstanding offensive linemen in Cedric Johnson, Tommy Sharpe and Ben Hall."

Clemson also will have to get off to a strong start in September by quickly adapting to new terminology if not a new offense and defense. Bowden has selected two new coordinators for the 2005 season. Rob Spence, who guided Toledo's potent attacks in recent years, will coordinate the offensive, while Vic Koenning, the leader of Troy's outstanding defense in recent seasons, will coordinate Clemson's defensive efforts.

"Our formations won't be much different on either side of the ball," said Bowden. "We will be spending a lot of time learning terminology and it might effect how much time we spend in meetings vs. practice in the spring. Offensively we will still be no-huddle with four wide receivers much of the time. We will use one back and two back sets. Defensively there will be some changes. We might be more odd than even for some opponents, but overall there won't be that many changes in alignment."

Offense (7 returning starters, 20 returning lettermen)

Clemson returns seven starters on offense, including quarterback Charlie Whitehurst, who already has 29 starts under his belt, 18 of which have resulted in Clemson victories. The 6-5 graduate student became the first player in ACC history to defeat nine different league schools, and he will have a chance to make it 10 when Boston College visits Clemson in 2005. He is tied for eighth in Clemson history in victories for a starting quarterback, including wins over top 10 teams from Florida State, Tennessee and Miami (FL). He is just the second quarterback in Clemson history to own three wins over top 10 teams.

While Whitehurst will be a fourth-year starter, he will have some learning to do this spring and August as he learns a new set of terms under offensive coordinator Rob Spence. Spence must be a good teacher, however, as he has a good track record in his previous stops with a quarterback in the first year of his system. His Toledo team gained over 3000 yards passing and 2000 yards rushing last year.

"I look for Charlie to have an outstanding final year," said Bowden. "There is not that big a difference between the schemes we have run here since Charlie has been at Clemson and what Rob does. Quarterbacks have had a high completion percentage under Coach Spence and I would look for Charlie to make an improvement in that area and his efficiency... and that will hopefully translate into more production for our offense and victories."

Whitehurst holds over 30 Clemson records, including career passing yardage (7182), completions (588) and 200-yard (18) and 300-yard (5) passing games. He is second in percentage and touchdown passes. He threw for 2067 yards on 177-349 passing as a junior when he threw seven touchdown passes. As a sophomore he completed 62 percent of his passes for 3561 yards and 21 scores when he led Clemson to a 9-4 record and a #22 final national ranking in both polls.

The native of Georgia has had many big games in his Clemson career, not the least of which was a 258-yard passing effort in Clemson's win at Miami (FL) in overtime. He also has a perfect 3-0 record against South Carolina, tying the school record for wins over Clemson's in-state rival. He will have a chance to be the first 4-0 Tiger signal caller against the Gamecocks when Clemson travels to Columbia in November.

Whitehurst will have three scholarship quarterbacks fighting for the backup spot. Junior Will Proctor is the only one of the three to play in a game and he has attempted just three passes in his eight games played over the last two years. Tribble Reese and Cullen Harper are a pair of freshmen who red-shirted last season.

Clemson returns its top two rushers from 2004 in Reggie Merriweather and Duane Coleman. Merriweather had 670 yards in 135 carries last year for nearly a 5.0 average. He scored 11 of Clemson's 15 rushing touchdowns and ranked fifth in the ACC in scoring. No one would have thought the 5-9 sophomore would have been Clemson's top rusher at midseason because he had just 162 yards through the first five games, including two games when he didn't gain a yard.

But, Merriweather averaged 85 yards a game over the last six games of the season, including 100-yard efforts in Clemson wins over Miami (FL) and South Carolina. He scored three touchdowns in each of those games. He scored seven of his 11 touchdowns in the last three games.

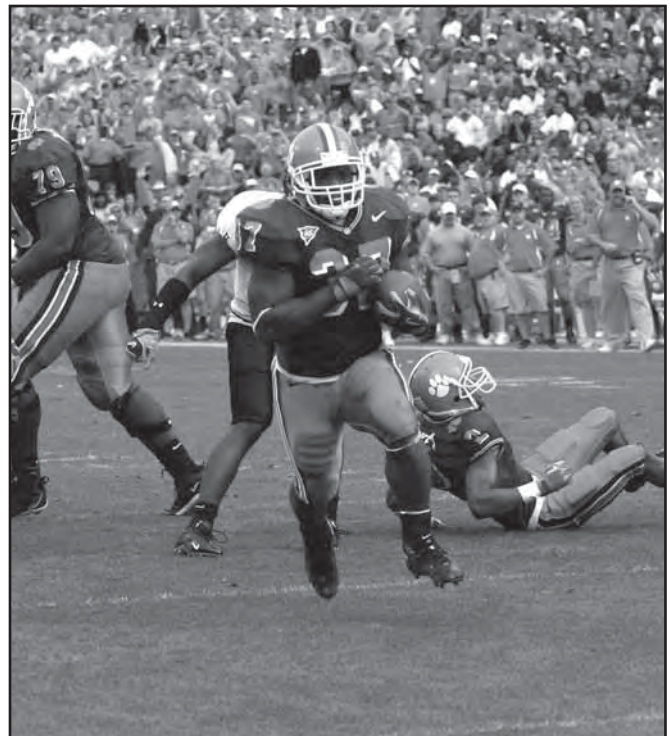

Coleman, Clemson's top rusher in 2003, was second on the team in rushing with 284 yards on 93 attempts and he scored one touchdown last year. He is also Clemson's top receiver out of the backfield with 49 career receptions, including 34 in 2003. The native of Florida had an injury plagued season in which he missed two completed games and parts of two others. He had 77 all-purpose yards in the win over South Carolina and will be a factor in all phases of Clemson's offense in 2005.

Kyle Browning is a third returning letterman at the running back position. The 5-7 senior from Spartanburg has always been productive when given the chance. He played in all 11 games last year and averaged 7.5 yards per carry for his 14 rushes and has a 5.7 average for his 48 career carries. He scored the game-winning touchdown in overtime against Wake Forest in 2004 and had a clinching touchdown on a "panther play" in the win over Tennessee in the 2003 Peach Bowl.

Clemson has two strong fullbacks to help the Tiger ground attack. Cliff Harrell and Steven Jackson don't have the opportunity to carry the ball often, but they are important components of the Clemson offense, especially when it comes to short yardage situations. Harrell is a veteran of 36 games in three years, including eight starts, while Jackson, a transfer from East Tennessee State after the Bucs dropped football after the 2002 season, is one of the top special teams players on the team in addition to his contributions from the fullback position.

Clemson has four of its top five receivers returning, but the Tigers must replace ACC reception leader Airese Currie, who had 61 catches for 869 yards, the top figure in the ACC in both categories. The first Clemson player to lead the ACC in receiving in 24 years, Currie finished his career as one of six players in Clemson history with over 2000 receiving yards.

Clemson does have two returning starters at the wide receiver position, plus a third who has the potential to be the team's top pass catcher. Chansi Stuckey, a 6-0 junior from Warner Robbins, GA, was second to Reggie Merriweather started six games at tailback in 2004 and led the team with 670 rushing yards.

Currie last year with 25 catches for 280 yards. But, Stuckey had an injury plagued season. He had his best performances in the first game and the last game, as he had 8-112 receiving in the opening win over Wake Forest and 7-74 to lead the Tigers in the season finale over South Carolina. He had just 10 receptions in the nine games in between.

"I am anxious to see what Chansi Stuckey can do when he is healthy for a complete season," said Bowden. "He was very elusive when he was at full strength last year. He will also help us as a kick returner. As a junior Chansi is also one of the most respected players on the team."

Kelvin Grant had 23-274 receiving to rank third on the Clemson team last year. The 6-3 wideout, who was a high school All-American, caught a game-tying two-point conversion that was key to the win over Wake Forest, and had a season high seven catches at Texas A&M. Curtis Baham has been a solid possession receiver the last two seasons. The native of New Orleans had 16 catches for 188 yards last season, including a season high 4-56 at Miami.

There will be plenty of opportunity for wide receivers to see playing time in Clemson's 2005 offense that will feature a four-wide-receiver set for much of the time. La'Donte Harris was the only first year freshman on offense who played in any scrimmage plays last year and he will be counted on to step up this year. Aaron Kelly is a 6-4 freshman who red-shirted last year and appears to be ready for action. Chris Jefferson is a 6-2 sophomore and Andrew Diomande is a 6-1 freshman who will see playing time this year.

The tight end position will be manned by the talented Bobby Williamson. Clemson's starting tight end in 2003, he moved to defensive end last year. As a second team player, Williamson recorded 30 tackles, including seven tackles for loss, five of which were sacks. Now, with the graduation of Ben Hall and the propensity to throw to the tight end in Rob Spence's offense, Williams has moved back to tight end. Cole Downer, who has played guard in addition to tight end in his Clemson career, Zach Green, and Thomas Hunter, are also slated to see playing time at tight end for the Tigers in 2005.

Clemson has three returning starters at the five interior offensive line positions. The Tigers must replace Cedric Johnson, a starter at offensive guard each of the last three seasons, and center Tommy Sharpe, an Academic All-ACC player who has been Whitehurst's starting center in all but one of his 29 starts.

Despite those losses, Clemson should be improved in the offensive line, especially in the running game where Clemson ranked 100th in the nation in rushing last year with just 107 yards per game. In addition to returning both starters at tackle and one guard, the return of a healthy Chip Myrick and red-shirted guard Brandon Pilgrim should lead to a resurgence of the Tiger ground attack.

"We certainly need to improve in the running game," said Bowden. "We will miss Johnson and Sharpe, but our two tackles are talented and will only get better with experience. Barry Richardson was a consensus first-team freshman All-American who has great footwork for his level of experience and Marion Dukes is becoming a well rounded tackle at 315 pounds. Nathan Bennett finished strong last year and a Chip Myrick at full strength from day one in August will make a difference."

Richardson graduated from high school a year early and was slated to be red-shirted when he came to campus in August of 2004. But the 6-7, 350-pounder showed promise in preseason camp and was in the starting lineup by the fourth game of the season. He started eight games in the offensive line by season end, more than any other first-year freshman offensive lineman in Clemson history.

Dukes, like Richardson, a rare case of an offensive lineman who did not red-shirt, started every game last year at right tackle and had an average film grade of over 80 percent. Tim DeBeer is a two-year letterman who will backup Richardson and Christian Capote is a red-shirt sophomore slated to backup Dukes.

Bennett has started each of the last two years at guard and finished third on the club in knockdown blocks last year. Myrick is expected to start on the opposite guard. A starter much of 2003, he contracted mononucleosis in August and never seemed to reach full strength the entire season. The 290-pounder is anxious to make a fresh start in 2005, his final season.

The center position will be held by the non-related Frys. Dustin Fry played the position for over 100 plays as Sharpe's backup last year. He even has a start at the position (2003 at NC State), and has the size (6-4, 315 pounds) to be the anchor of the Tiger line for the next two years. He will have competition from Roman Fry, a 295-pounder from Ohio who will be playing his first year at center. He has lettered the last two years as a guard and tackle and might be the most versatile offensive lineman on the Clemson team.

Defense (6 returning starters, 22 returning lettermen)

Clemson fans have fond memories of the "Bandit" end position. It was a term used for a well-rounded defensive end by Tom Harper, the defensive coordinator of Clemson's 1981 National Championship team. Andy Headen was a 6-5, 245-pound converted quarterback who played the position, helping Clemson to a perfect 12-0 season with his all-around talents.

New coordinator Vic Koenning uses that moniker when designating one of his front line positions in his defense. "The 'Bandit' end will be a player who might rush one play, or drop back in coverage another," said Bowden. "It will be an important position that takes a special athlete."

The leading candidate to move into that position is Gaines Adams, who is almost identical to Headen's 6-5 and 245-pound stature. Adams has earned two letters as a productive backup, recording six sacks, 12 quarterback pressures and six passes broken up in his 23 games at defensive end. He also had two blocked punts on special teams last year.

Cortney Vincent, who earned rave reviews from Clemson coaches last year as he went through his red-shirt freshman year, and Elsmore Gabriel, a first-year freshman who enrolled at Clemson in January of 2005, are also fine athletes who will see playing time at Bandit. They will help the Tiger defensive effort attempt to improve from its #28 total defense ranking in 2004.

Charles Bennett will line up at the other defensive end position and he has a chance to be one of the top players in the ACC at his position. The senior had 48 tackles last year, including 14 tackles for loss and five sacks in 2004 when he started every game. His tackle for loss total was the best among Clemson defensive linemen, as was his 11 quarterback pressures. His biggest play of the 2004 season, however, was an interception. He picked off a Wolfpack pass on the last play of the game on the goal line to clinch the Tigers 26-20 victory.

Brandon Cannon, Kwam Williams and Akeem Robinson will battle for playing time behind Bennett. Cannon lettered in 2004, while Williams is an ever improving 255-pound sophomore. Robinson is a gifted athlete from Florida who played on the offensive line most of last year when he red-shirted, but will play on the defensive line this year.

Clemson must replace Eric Coleman at defensive tackle. The Tigers return Trey Tate, a red-shirt senior who has earned three letters. In 2004, his first year as a starter, Tate had 34 tackles, including two sacks and three tackles for loss. Cory Groover is the top candidate to replace Coleman. The junior college transfer who had 27 tackles as a backup last year, will lineup at the nose guard position at 6-3 and 280 pounds.

The three linebacker positions return a pair of starters and seven lettermen, but that doesn't mean Clemson doesn't have a hole to fill. Leroy Hill was Clemson's top tackler last year with 106, including 19 tackles for loss and eight sacks. He led Clemson in all three areas and ranked among the top five in the ACC in all three areas.

The leader of the linebacker corps should be returning starter Anthony Waters. The 6-3, 235-pounder was third on the team in tackles last year and will be the top returning tackler for 2005. Waters had 70 tackles in starting all 11 games, including nine tackles for loss. His top game of the year came at Miami when he had eight tackles, including three tackles for loss and a sack.

Lionel Richardson and Roosevelt Nelson will serve as backups for Waters. Richardson, an engineering major and an original walk-on, has earned a letter the last two years. Nelson is a three-year letterman and a senior in 2005 who has been a top special teams player.

Tramaine Billie will be the starter at the SAM linebacker position. Billie started six of the 11 games last year at the WHIP linebacker position and had 62 tackles, fifth on the Clemson team. He added nine tackles for loss and two sacks. His top game was a 10-tackle performance in the win over NC State. Maurice Nelson, Roosevelt's younger brother, will serve as a backup for Billie.

David Dunham and Nick Watkins will battle for the third starting linebacker position. Both are experienced 6-2 hard hitters who will play the WILL linebacker slot. Dunham is a senior who played fullback early in his career. He had 28 tackles a year ago when he played in all 11 games for 162 total plays. Watkins had 53 tackles last year, more than any other non-starter. Forty of his 53 tackles were first hits.

Defensive end Charles Bennett had a breakout season in 2004, totaling 48 tackles, 14 tackles for loss, five sacks, and two interceptions.

Tramaine Billie, a junior from Columbia, SC, recorded 62 tackles and nine tackles for loss in his first season as a starter.

Clemson's secondary was listed among the best in the nation in the preseason for 2004 and by season's end they lived up to those standards. Clemson ranked 12th in the nation in pass efficiency defense, and 25th in overall total defense. Clemson had 11 interceptions over the last six games.

Clemson must replace 2004 starters Travis Pugh and Justin Miller, but return starters Jamaal Fudge and Tye Hill. Both are seniors who will be leaders of the entire team, not just the defense.

Fudge had 66 tackles last year to rank fourth on the team, second among secondary players. Fudge had 13 passes defended, 10 passes broken up and three interceptions for a team best 55 return yards. This will be his third year as a starter and he has more interceptions than any other active Tiger with seven. Hill had 21 passes defended last year to rank in the top five in the nation. A running back his freshman year who was the ACC 100 meter outdoor track champion in 2004, Hill is one of the most improved defensive players in the ACC over the last three years. He had four passes broken up at Miami and four in the win over rival South Carolina to close the season.

The CAT position is a secondary position that is similar to a safety. C.J. Gaddis, a backup cornerback last year, is listed as the starter at this position entering the spring. The former quarterback who also lettered on the Clemson baseball team last spring, had 21 tackles last year as a nickel back and reserve behind Justin Miller.

Tavaghn Monts is a senior defensive back who will challenge Gaddis at the CAT position. He had a big pass deflection in overtime in the win over Wake Forest last year. Michael Hamlin, a high school All-American who red-shirted last year as a freshman, also will see playing time at the CAT position.

Sergio Gilliam, a second-team corner last year who had 14 tackles, is slated as the starting corner opposite of Hill. He is a 6-3 player who should be effective in jump ball situations against tall wide receivers. Chris Clemons and Brandon Croley, both red-shirt freshmen, and Brandon Nolen, a former running back, will all battle for playing time at both cornerback positions.

Special Teams

Clemson was outstanding on special teams in 2004, leading the ACC and ranking fourth in the nation in kickoff returns. Clemson also blocked four punts, most by a Tiger team since 1989. Clemson returns both its starting placekicker and starting punter from 2004, but will have to find a replacement for one of the best kick return players in ACC football history.

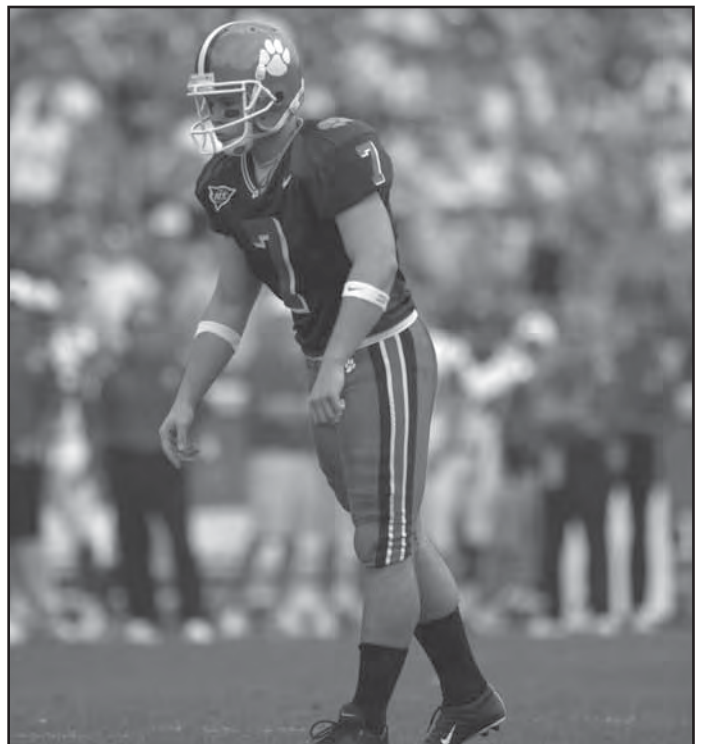

Cole Chason has been Clemson's starting punter each of the last two seasons and improved his punting average from 38.6 as a freshman to 40.2 as a sophomore in 2004. He has been very consistent, averaging over 36.2 yards in net punting each of the last two years. He had 19 punts inside the 20 in 2003 and 18 last year. He finished the season strong with a 41.5 net punting average with a career high four punts inside the 20 in the victory over South Carolina.

Jad Dean made 12-15 field goals in 2004, his first year as the starting placekicker. Ten of those 12 made field goals took place in the last four games of the season. He had four field goals and scored a career high 14 points in the 26-20 win over NC State, then made 3-3 in the win over South Carolina.

Dean really has a big impact for the Clemson defense, as he had 25 touchbacks on his 50 kickoffs, a big reason opponents started at their own 20-yard-line 72 percent of the time last year. Clemson had a nine-yard advantage in average starting position after kickoffs in 2004. Clemson must replace Justin Miller, the nation's kickoff return champion in 2004 with a 33.05 average. Miller, who turned professional after his junior year, became the ACC's career leader in this category with 30.68 career average, among the top 10 in NCAA history. Miller also ranked 19th in punt returns last year and had five total kick returns for touchdowns in his career a Clemson record.

C.J. Gaddis and Chansi Stuckey are two returning players with experience in this area and could be factors in this area. Or, an incoming freshman could have an impact in this area in 2005.

Clemson had a solid year in kick coverage last year, allowing just 7.8 yards per punt return and no kick returns for touchdowns. Nick Watkins had 10 special teams tackles, while Tramaine Billie and Steven Jackson had nine apiece. All three return for 2005, as do Gaines Adams, Gaddis and Stuckey, who combined for Clemson's four blocked kicks in 2004.

Jad Dean made 12-15 field goals during the 2004 season for Clemson. Included in his total was a 4-4 performance against N.C. State.

Leroy Hill was a third-team AP All-American and was named ACC Defensive Player of the Year.

Hill, Miller Named All-Americans

Clemson middle linebacker Leroy Hill was selected as a first-team All-American by CollegeSportsReport.com, a third-team All-American by the Associated Press and a first team All-American by Rivals.com for 2004, while Justin Miller was named second-team All-American as a return specialist by Rivals.com and College Football News. Hill led the ACC and ranked 11th in the nation with eight sacks before being named the ACC Defensive Player of the Year by the ACC Sports Media Association. Miller led the nation in kickoff return yardage, averaging 33.05 yards per return.

Hill tied for the ACC lead in tackles for loss (19) and moved into a tie for fifth place in Clemson history in that category with 48. He had at least one tackle for loss in every game in 2004 and had a streak of 13 straight games with a tackle for loss dating to 2003. The native of Georgia recorded a sack in seven of 11 games in 2004 and tied a Clemson record by recording at least one sack in five consecutive games. He had seven double-digit tackle games in 2004, leading Clemson with 106 total tackles.

Hill was the first All-America linebacker at Clemson since Keith Adams in 2000 and the first Associated Press All-American regardless of position since Robert Carswell in 2000. Hill joins the list of recent Clemson All-America linebackers that includes Adams, Anthony Simmons, Ed McDaniel, Levon Kirkland, Johnny Rembert, and Jeff Davis.

Miller was the first Clemson player to lead the nation in kickoff return yardage since Terrance Roulhac in 1986 and the first Tiger to lead the nation in any category since Keith Adams led the nation in tackles and tackles for loss in 1999. Miller returned three total kicks for touchdowns in 2004, one punt in the season opener against Wake Forest and two kickoffs against Florida State. He set an NCAA record for kickoff return yards in a game that day with 282.

The native of Kentucky had a 13.04 punt return average which ranked 19th nationally. Miller joined Miami's Devin Hester and Southern Cal's Reggie Bush as the only players in the nation to rank in the top 20 nationally in both kickoff and punt return average.

Miller is the first return specialist in Clemson history to be selected as an All-American and the first special teams player to be named All-American since placekicker Nelson Welch in 1992. Miller concluded his career with a 30.7 average on kickoff returns, fourth best in NCAA history and the best among player who had at least 50 returns.

Hill, Currie Named First-team All-ACC

Clemson linebacker Leroy Hill and wide receiver Airese Currie were both named first-team All-ACC in 2004. It was the second straight year that Hill had been named to the team, while Currie became the first Tiger wide receiver since 1991 to earn first-team honors. Hill was also named the ACC Defensive Player of the Year, the first Tiger to win that award since Keith Adams in 1999.

Hill had 143 points in the balloting done by the Atlantic Coast Sports-writers Association, third among defensive players. He is the first Clemson player, regardless of position, since 1999-2000 to earn first-team All-ACC honors in consecutive years. Current Philadelphia Eagles linebacker Keith Adams, who like Hill wore #43, was the last Tiger football player to earn first-team All-ACC in consecutive years.

Hill is the eighth Clemson linebacker to be named first-team All-ACC twice. The others are Randy Scott, Anthony Simmons, Keith Adams, Bubba Brown, Levon Kirkland, Jim Catoe and Ed McDaniel. The senior from Haddock, GA finished the season with a team best 106 tackles, including 19 tackles for loss and eight sacks.

Currie had an ACC best 61 catches for an ACC best 868 receiving yards during the 2004 season. The senior from Columbia, SC became the first Clemson receiver to lead the league in receptions per game since 1980 when Perry Tuttle led the conference. He is the first Clemson receiver to earn first-team All-ACC honors since Terry Smith was named to the team as a sophomore in 1991.

Currie joins Smith, Tuttle, Terrance Roulhac, Jerry Butler, Charlie Waters and Gary Barnes as receivers who were named first-team All-ACC at Clemson. Currie completed his Clemson career tied for seventh in school history in receptions with 138 and he was sixth in reception yards.

Justin Miller was a second-team selection as both a defensive back and kick returner. The junior from Owensboro, KY had 54 tackles, including 46 first hits, and three interceptions during his junior season. He also led the nation in kickoff returns with a 33.1 average and he ranked 19th in punt returns with a 13.0 average.

Three Clemson players received honorable mention honors by the All-ACC team. Cedric Johnson was named honorable mention as an offensive guard, while Eric Coleman was named as a defensive lineman. Tye Hill, who ranked third in the nation in passes defended with 21, was also an honorable mention selection as a defensive back.

Clemson placekicker Jad Dean and starting center Tommy Sharpe were both named to the ACC Academic All-ACC team.

Richardson Named First-Team Freshman All-American

Clemson offensive tackle Barry Richardson was named a first-team freshman All-American by The Sporting News for the 2004 season. Richardson is the first Tiger to be named to a freshman All-America team since Justin Miller was a unanimous choice in 2002. Richardson was also named a first-team freshman All-American by the Football Writer's Association.

Richardson, a 345-pound offensive tackle from Mount Pleasant, SC, started each of the last seven games of 2004 and the Tigers posted a 5-2 mark in those contests. He played 471 plays for the season, the most ever by a Clemson first-year freshman offensive player and the fifth most by any Clemson first-year freshman regardless of position.

Richardson finished the year with 19 knockdown blocks and a 76 percent average blocking grade, including a 79 percent grade for the seven games he started. He had a 78 percent grade and a team best six knockdown blocks in the victory at 10th ranked Miami (FL) on November 6 and had an 81 percent grade in the season ending win over rival South Carolina.

With his seven starts, Richardson became the first Clemson first-year freshman to serve as a starter in the offensive line since the 1943 season when Clemson's junior and senior classes were drafted into the armed services by the United States government. He was the first first-year freshman to start in the offensive line in any Clemson game since Stacy Long started at Georgia in 1986. But, that was the only start of the year for Long, who went on to become a two-time All-American at tackle.

Swinney Named Top 25 Recruiter

Clemson wide receivers coach Dabo Swinney was named one of the top 25 recruiters in the country by Rivals.com in February. The second-year assistant was cited for signing nine players in each of the last two classes, with strong efforts in Alabama, Florida and South Carolina.

Clemson set receiving records for receptions, reception yards, and touchdown receptions in Swinney's first season in 2003. Airese Currie, Derrick Hamilton, and Kevin Youngblood combined for 175 catches and 2,483 yards along with 16 touchdowns. In 2004, Swinney's only senior receiver had a banner season. Airese Currie caught 61 passes for 868 yards and two touchdowns and became just the seventh Clemson receiver to be named to the All-ACC first team. He is also the first Tiger since Perry Tuttle in 1980 to lead the league in receptions per game.

Since 1997, Swinney has had 14 former players either drafted or sign free agent contracts. The list includes third-round pick Hamilton, Youngblood, and former All-American Freddie Milons, Alabama's all-time leading receiver in terms of receptions and second in yardage.

Clemson Home Attendance for 2004

Clemson averaged 78,823 fans per home football game during the 2004 season, the fifth best season average in school history and the best since the 2001 season. Clemson had at least 76,500 fans attend every game in 2004, including a high of 82,372 for the South Carolina game on November 20.

The only seasons that have had higher attendance averages than the 2004 season were 1988, 2001, 1990 and 1989. In Tommy Bowden's six years at Clemson, five of the seasons the Tigers have averaged at least 77,525 fans per game. He has been the coach for four of the top eight and five of the top 10 attendance seasons in Clemson history, more top 10 seasons than any other Clemson head coach.

Victory over Miami Gives Tigers Three Top 10 Wins in 13 Games

When Clemson defeated Miami (FL) in overtime by a 24-17 score in the Orange Bowl last year it gave Clemson three victories over top 10 teams within a 13-game period that covered just less than a year. It marked the first time Clemson had gained three top 10 wins in a 13-game period since the 1981 season when Clemson defeated top 10 teams Georgia, North Carolina and Nebraska. That is the only other time Clemson has done it.

The Tigers started the stretch with a 26-10 win over third ranked Florida State on November 8, 2003, the highest ranked team Clemson has ever beaten. On January 2, 2004, Clemson defeated sixth-ranked Tennessee in the Peach Bowl in Atlanta, GA by a 27-14 score, the highest ranked team Clemson has beaten in a bowl game since downing fourth ranked Nebraska to win the national championship in the 1982 Orange Bowl.

Clemson's win at 10th ranked Miami (FL) came in the Orange Bowl on November 6, 2004. Clemson overcame a 14-point deficit to gain the victory in overtime. The Tigers trailed going into the fourth quarter. The Hurricanes had been 174-2 when leading going into the fourth quarter since 1985.

Charlie Whitehurst was the starting quarterback in all three Clemson victories, joining Homer Jordan as the only Tiger quarterback to guide the Tigers to three wins over top 10 teams.

Clemson Adds Three New Coaches

Clemson has added three new coaches to its staff for the 2005 season. The additions include offensive coordinator Rob Spence, defensive coordinator Vic Koenning and defensive ends coach Marion Hobby. Spence spent the 2004 season as the offensive coordinator at Toledo, Koenning was the defensive coordinator at Troy and Hobby was a defensive ends coach at Mississippi.

Spence guided a Toledo offense that averaged 474.1 yards per game and 35.2 points per game during the 2004 regular season that included a 9-3 overall record and the Mid-American Conference Championship. It was the third time in four years that Toledo has played for the MAC championship.

The Rockets gained 2,013 yards rushing and 3,676 yards passing this past regular season, joining Louisville (11-1), Southern Cal (12-0) and Oklahoma (12-0) as the only offenses in the nation to record at least 2000 yards rushing and 3000 yards passing during the 2004 regular season. Toledo's 3,676 yards passing were the most in the nation among schools who rushed for at least 2,000 yards during the regular season.

Toledo's balance was also demonstrated in terms of its touchdown distribution. The Rockets had 25 rushing touchdowns and 28 passing touchdowns, joining Southern Cal, Utah and California as the only schools in the nation with at least 25 of each during the 2004 regular season.

Koenning's Trojan defense was sixth in the nation in pass efficiency defense (100.56 rating points), eighth in rushing defense (100.92), and 10th in scoring defense (16.67) in 2004, helping the squad to a 7-5 record and a bowl appearance in the Silicon Valley Bowl against Northern Illinois. Ironically, the only other Division I school to rank in the top 10 of all three primary defensive categories in 2004 was another school with Trojans as their nickname, National Champion Southern Cal.

Troy's defense was also first in the nation in interceptions (25) and tied for second in turnovers forced (32), in addition to ninth in the nation in yards per play allowed, and 16th in the nation in total defense (311.0). Only Southern Cal had more takeaways than Troy on defense.

Of the 12 teams Troy faced this past year, 11 failed to reach their scoring average for the course of the season. Teams scored an average of six points per game less than their season average when facing Koenning's defense in 2004.

Hobby was a member of the Mississippi staff that took the Rebels to a 44-29 record over the last six seasons, including a 10-3 record in 2003, a season that included a Cotton Bowl victory over Oklahoma State. Hobby coached in five bowl games during his time at Mississippi and the Rebels won four of them, posting victories over Big 12 foes Texas Tech, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Oklahoma State.

Hobby came to Mississippi in December of 1998 to serve under David Cutcliffe. In his first full season on the staff as a defensive coach (1999), Mississippi ranked fourth in the nation in rushing defense, allowing just 78.1 yards per game.

ACC to use Instant Replay in 2005 Season

The Atlantic Coast Conference announced in February that it will implement the use of instant replay on an experimental basis beginning with the 2005 football season. The proposal, by the league's Athletics Directors, was approved unanimously by the Faculty Representatives at the Conference's Winter Meetings.

Following these discussions, as a well as a presentation by David Parry, National Coordinator of College Football Officials and Coordinator of Big Ten Football Officials, and Tommy Hunt, the Coordinator of ACC Football Officials, the league voted to base its system on the Big Ten's model and to look at any possible variances allowed within NCAA guidelines. The NCAA Football Rules Committee voted last week to give conferences the opportunity to use instant replay on an experimental basis for the 2005 season.

Game-by-Game Players of the Week

For the second consecutive season, Clemson head coaches selected a Clemson player of the week on offense, defense and special teams. The award winners are announced each Sunday at a team meeting and the winning players are depicted in the football offices in an action shot from the previous Saturday's game.

Reggie Merriweather and Justin Miller were honored four times each during the 2004 season. Merriweather was named the offensive player of the game against Texas A&M, Maryland, Miami (FL) and South Carolina. Miller was a four-time special teams player of the game as he was chosen for his performances against Wake Forest, Texas A&M, Florida State and Miami (FL).

Five Games Decided on Last Play

Clemson had five games during the 2004 season that were decided on the last play of the game. We don't have every play-by-play on file in the Clemson SID office dating to the beginning of Tiger football in 1896, but it is safe to say 2004 was the all-time "Cliff-hanger" season in Clemson football history. The five last-play games do not include the Maryland game, when Clemson scored a touchdown on a short run by Reggie Merriweather with 23 seconds left. Justin Miller then intercepted a Maryland pass on the next drive and Clemson ran out the final few seconds.

The madness all started with the season opener when the Tigers defeated Wake Forest 37-30 in overtime on an 11-yard pass from Charlie Whitehurst to Kyle Browning. The next week, Georgia Tech defeated the Tigers 28-24 in Death Valley when Calvin Johnson caught an 11-yard touchdown pass from Reggie Ball with 11 seconds left. Clemson had a pass into the endzone from the Tech 31 on the last play that fell incomplete.

Clemson then won the aforementioned Maryland game on October 23, followed by a 26-20 win over NC State. The Pack had a fourth-down play from the 11-yard line (same distance as the Tech game), with eight seconds left, but Charles Bennett intercepted at the goal line and his return ran out the clock. On November 6, Clemson won at 10th ranked Miami in overtime. An incomplete pass on a fourth-down play on Miami's final snap in overtime that gave the Tigers the victory. Duke then defeated Clemson on a 53-yard field goal on the last play of the Nov. 13 game.

Clemson finished 4-2 in 2004 in games decided by seven points or less. Clemson's four wins in 2004 by seven points or less rank as the most in a season since the 1993 team won five (against just one loss). The overall record for wins in a season by seven points or less is six. The 1948 team had a perfect 6-0 record in close games on the way to an 11-0 record.

It is interesting to see how winning close games goes in cycles. Between the 1998 and 1999 seasons, Clemson was 0-9 in games decided by seven points or less. Clemson went 12-0-3 in games decided by seven points or less between 1948-51.

Clemson's Dominance of South Carolina under Bowden

Clemson defeated South Carolina in the final game of the 2004 season by a 29-7 score in Death Valley. That gives Clemson five wins over the rival Gamecocks in the six years Tommy Bowden has been the head coach of the Tigers. The only loss came at Columbia during the 2001 season, a 20-15 Gamecock victory.

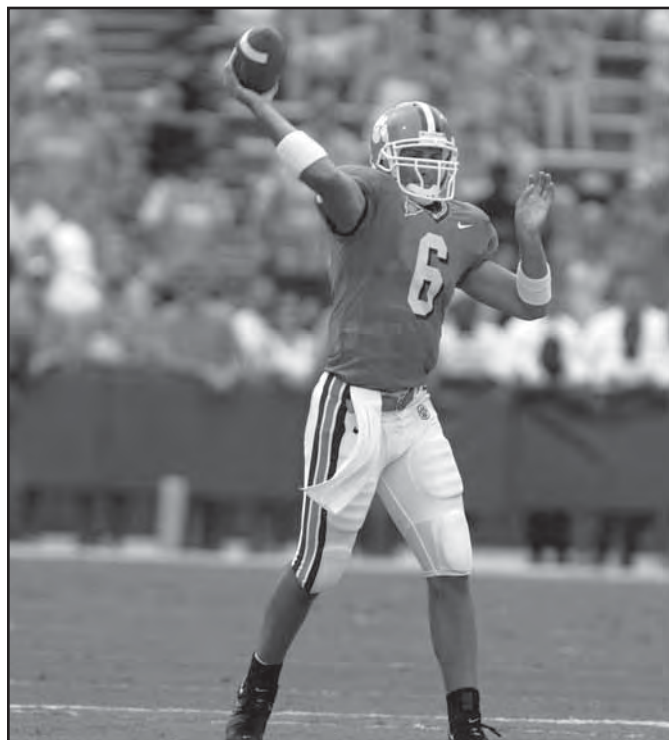

Over the last six years Clemson has outscored South Carolina, 181-99, a +13.7 points per game scoring margin. That includes a 63-17 Clemson victory in Columbia in 2003, the most points Clemson has ever scored against South Carolina. The 46-point margin was the largest for the Tigers in the series since 1900.

Clemson has outgained South Carolina in terms of rushing (1043-831), passing (1,378-996) and total offense (2,421-1,826) in the six games combined since Tommy Bowden has been the Tiger coach. Clemson has averaged 403.5 yards per game in total offense against South Carolina in the six games and has yielded 304.3, a +99-yard total offense advantage for the six contests.

Whitehurst Has Defeated Nine ACC Teams

Clemson quarterback Charlie Whitehurst has now defeated every ACC team he has faced at least once in his 29 games as Clemson's starting quarterback. Due to conference expansion, he is the first ACC quarterback in league history to defeat nine different ACC teams over his career. The ninth different team he defeated was Miami (FL), a 24-17 overtime victory on November 6. Whitehurst completed 21 of 37 passes for 258 yards against the Hurricanes. He will have an opportunity to beat a 10th ACC team when Boston College comes to Clemson for the first time as an ACC opponent during the 2005 season.

Whitehurst now has a 18-11 record as a starting quarterback. Entering his final season, the Clemson graduate is tied for eight in Clemson history in total wins as a starting quarterback. The record is 32 held by Rodney Williams, who was 32-10-2 between 1985-88.

Starting quarterback Charlie Whitehurst has defeated nine ACC teams during his career at Clemson and hopes to add a 10th victim when Boston College comes to town in September.

Bowden, Clemson Second in ACC Wins Since 1999

Clemson finished its ACC schedule with a 4-4 record, the sixth straight year Clemson has had at least a break even conference mark. Clemson, Florida State and Georgia Tech are the only ACC schools with at least a break even conference mark every year since 1999.

Clemson has a 28-20 ACC record since 1999, Tommy Bowden's first year as Clemson's head coach. The Tigers trail on Florida State and Tommy's father, Bobby Bowden, in ACC wins over that time. The Seminoles are 42-6 during that six-year span, including 6-2 in 2004. Virginia also has a 28-20 record in the league in that time period.

Clemson Overcame 14-Point Deficit at Miami

Clemson overcame a 14-point deficit at Miami (FL) to defeat the 10th ranked Hurricanes 24-17 in overtime on November 6. It marked just the eighth time in history that Clemson has overcome a deficit of 14 points or more then won the game. It was the third time Clemson has done this under Tommy Bowden.

Clemson trailed the Hurricanes 17-3 at halftime and 17-10 entering the fourth quarter. But the Tigers tied the game in regulation, then won the game in overtime on a two-yard run by Reggie Merriweather. The Tigers then stopped Miami on downs in the overtime. The Clemson record for deficit overcome to gain victory is 28 points, at Virginia in 1992. The Cavaliers were also ranked 10th in the nation entering that game.

Overcoming Incredible Odds

When Clemson defeated Miami (FL) in the Orange Bowl in November 6, the Tigers overcame some Miami trends that dated back 20 years. Heading into the game, here is a list of some of Miami's records in certain situations that Clemson overcame to gain the 24-17 overcome triumph:

- Miami was 174-2 when leading after three quarters since 1985. The Tigers trailed 17-10 entering the fourth quarter before gaining the win in overtime.
- Miami was 174-15 when scoring first since 1983. Miami scored first in this game, going 68 yards in five plays on its first possession.
- Larry Coker was 41-4 for his career as the head coach at Miami entering this game. That included a 22-3 record at night.
- Miami had won 18 consecutive night games in the Orange Bowl dating to a 27-20 overtime loss to Virginia Tech in 1998.
- Miami had been 103-8 against unranked opponents since 1990.
- Miami had been 52-5 in the 21st century, the best record in college football.
- Clemson had lost 10 straight games in the state of Florida dating to a victory over Illinois in the 1991 Hall of Fame Bowl (end of 1990 season).
- Clemson overcame a 14-point halftime deficit to gain victory.

The Future of the ACC (Division structure)

The ACC was one 11-team league in 2004, as Miami (FL) and Virginia were in the ACC for the first time. Next year, Boston College will join the conference, creating a 12 team league that will have a conference championship at the end of the year.

The league will be divided into two divisions for 2005. The Atlantic Division will be composed of Maryland, Clemson, NC State, Wake Forest, Florida State and Boston College. Clemson is guaranteed to play each of those schools every year. The Coastal Division is composed of Virginia, Georgia Tech, North Carolina, Duke, Miami (FL) and Virginia Tech. Clemson is guaranteed to play only Georgia Tech every year from that Division.

The winners of each division will meet in the ACC Championship game the first Saturday in December in Jacksonville, FL each of the next two seasons.

Tye Hill Set Clemson PBU Record

Clemson cornerback Tye Hill set a Clemson record for passes broken up in a season when he had 21 in 2004. The rising Clemson senior finished third in the nation in that category. He broke Dexter Polite's record of 17, that had been set in 1999. Polite had 17 passes broken up and four interceptions that year for 21 passes defended. Hill tied that mark with 21 passes broken up and no interceptions. Hill had a career high tying four passes broken up in the win over Miami (FL) and in the win over South Carolina to end the season.

Hill, also a star on the Clemson men's track team in recent years, had 52 tackles in 2004 in 11 games, much improved over his 37 tackles in 2003. A running back who averaged 5.4 yards a carry as a freshman in 2002, Hill had eight tackles against NC State to tie his career high. During that game, he wore a hidden microphone for the ESPN program "The Season," a program that will be shown on ESPN2 this Thursday evening. It was believed to be the first time a college player has been miked during a game.

Head Coach Tommy Bowden

When you look at Tommy Bowden's resume, the first thing that comes to mind is consistency. Bowden has completed eight seasons as a Division I head coach and all eight of his teams have been bowl eligible at the conclusion of the season.

Bowden has also shown consistency in terms of improvement over the course of seasons. Each of the last two seasons his teams have won five of its last six games. The 2003 team won its last four, including two over top 10 teams Florida State and Tennessee to finish the year ranked in the top 25 of both polls.

There has also been consistency in terms of success against Clemson's in-state rival, South Carolina. The Tigers have won five of the six meetings with the Gamecocks since Bowden became the head coach in 1999 and the .833 winning percentage is the best of any Clemson head coach in history given a minimum of five games played. He has an average victory margin of 13.7 points per game in the state rivalry game, all against future Hall of Fame Coach Lou Holtz.

Through eight seasons as a Division I head coach, Bowden has a 62-33 record, a .653 winning percentage that ranks among the top 15 winningest active coaches. In conference games Bowden has never had a sub-.500 record and his overall conference record stands at 39-21 for a .650 winning percentage. Through six years at Clemson he has a 44-29 mark and five bowl appearances.

Twice, Bowden has been named ACC Coach of the Year (1999 and 2003), joining Frank Howard, Charley Pell and Danny Ford as the only two-time recipients of that award in Clemson history.

Consistency in his approach is one reason Clemson went from a 1-4 start to bowl eligibility in 2004. It marked the first time since 1963 that a Clemson team had overcome such a deficit to finish with a winning season.

His 2004 Clemson team featured a defense that ranked 12th in the nation in passing efficiency defense. The unit had 42 sacks to rank in the top 10 in the nation in that category. Leroy Hill was named the ACC Defensive Player of the Year and a third-team Associated Press All-American. Cornerback Justin Miller was a semifinalist for the Jim Thorpe Award and was a second-team All-American as a kick returner. Wide receiver Airese Currie led the ACC in receptions and reception yards and quarterback Charlie Whitehurst increased his record total to 34 school records on a game, season and career basis.

Clemson played a complete game at Miami on November 6, 2004 and defeated the Hurricanes in the Orange Bowl, 24-17 in overtime. It was the second overtime win of the season for the Tigers, who are now 4-0 in extra session games under Bowden and an NCAA Record 5-0 for the history of the program.

Clemson's defense held the Hurricanes to just 101 yards rushing and no points in the second half. The Tiger offense, led by quarterback Charlie Whitehurst, threw for 258 yards, while running back Reggie Merriweather rushed for 114 yards and three touchdowns. Clemson overcame a 14-point halftime deficit, not to mention overcoming a fourth quarter deficit, a rarity against Miami. The Hurricanes had been 174-2 when leading going into the fourth quarter since 1985.

The win over Miami gave Bowden and the Tigers three wins over top 10 programs in the last 13 games, something that had been done at Clemson just once previously (1981 National Championship team). All three of those programs, Florida State, Tennessee and Miami (FL) had won the national championship within the last seven seasons.

Over the last two seasons, Bowden has gained five wins over coaches who have won the national championship (Bobby Bowden, Phillip Fulmer, Larry Coker and Lou Holtz twice). These big wins have stimulated interest in the Clemson program. The Tigers averaged nearly 79,000 fans per home game in 2004, sixth highest average in Clemson history. Clemson has ranked in the top 20 in home football attendance each of the six seasons Bowden has been at Clemson.

With Clemson's selection to the 2003 Chick-Fil-A Peach Bowl, Bowden became the first head coach in Clemson and ACC history to take a team to a bowl game in each of his first five seasons. In fact, no coach had ever done so more than twice to open his career at Clemson. That is also something that prominent predecessors Jess Neely, Frank Howard, Charley Pell, Danny Ford, and Ken Hatfield failed to do. Under Bowden's direction, Clemson had also appeared in the Peach Bowl in 1999, the Gator Bowl in 2000, the 2001 Humanitarian Bowl, and the 2002 Tangerine Bowl prior to its 2004 Peach Bowl invitation.

Clemson's appearance in the 2004 Peach Bowl gave Bowden five straight bowl appearances, the longest streak since the 1985-91 era had a run of seven straight bowl appearances. That level of consistency set a firm foundation for the Clemson program, one that was recognized by Clemson administrators. In December, 2003, Bowden cemented his position at Clemson by signing a seven-year contract, which will go through the 2010 season.

The 2003 season was a breakthrough year in many ways for the Tigers. Clemson earned its highest-ever win over a ranked team with a 26-10 victory over #3 Florida State. The Tigers also defeated #24 Virginia in a thrilling overtime game. The 39-3 win over a bowl-bound Georgia Tech team was Clemson's largest victory margin in the series since 1900 as well.

The victory over Florida State, Clemson's first in 12 tries since the Seminoles joined the ACC, was the beginning of a four-game winning streak to close the season. In those four games, Clemson outscored its opponents 156-48, an average score of 39-12. Clemson defeated arch-rival South Carolina in Columbia by a score of 63-17. It was the most points ever scored by a team in the 101-game series and the Tigers' largest victory margin in the series since 1900.

The season concluded with a 27-14 win over #6 Tennessee, the highest-ranked team Clemson has defeated in a bowl game since 1981, when the Tigers defeated #4 Nebraska in the Orange Bowl to claim the national championship. As a result, Clemson finished the season with nine wins and a #22 final national ranking.

Over the final four games of the season, Bowden defeated two coaches (Bobby Bowden, Lou Holtz) who had already earned 200 victories to become the first coach in NCAA history to beat a pair of 200-game winners in a month's time. Bowden also registered wins over three coaches (Bowden, Holtz, Phillip Fulmer) who had previously won a national title during the 2003 season.

Records continued to fall in 2003 under Bowden. Charlie Whitehurst set the single-season mark for passing yards (3,561), completions (288), and tied the record for touchdown passes (21). Derrick Hamilton's 10 touchdown catches also set a single-season mark at Clemson, while placekicker Aaron Hunt became the school's all-time leading scorer in the game against the Seminoles.

The 2003 team showed improvement both from 2002 and over the course of the 2003 season. The Tigers averaged over 420 yards per game of total offense and ranked in the top 25 in the nation in passing yards per game, a first in school history. The Tiger defense was also outstanding, allowing under 20 points per game and under 330 yards per game, both ranking in the top 30 in the country. Perhaps Clemson's strongest facet of the defense was the secondary. The Tigers were second in the ACC in pass defense, a top-25 mark in the country. Clemson also was second in the nation in kickoff returns, averaging 27.7 yards per return, a school-record figure.

Off the field, Clemson has graduated nearly 75 percent of its scholarship seniors in Bowden's six years. In 2003, Clemson ranked #11 in the nation, including second among public institutions, in the NCAA graduation-rate study for scholarship football signees who entered Clemson in 1996. Clemson was first in the nation in graduation rate among African-Americans (100 percent).

The 2002 season included victories over bowl teams Georgia Tech and Wake Forest, and a third victory in four years over arch-rival South Carolina. Clemson gained 434 yards of total offense in the 27-20 win over the Gamecocks, the most yards against Lou Holtz's defense all season.

The 2002 Tigers featured balance on both offense and defense. Clemson's receiving trio of Hamilton, J.J. McKelvey, and Kevin Youngblood combined for 163 receptions for nearly 2,000 yards and eight scores. The Clemson defense featured two of the top 21 players in the nation in terms of interceptions per game. Justin Miller had eight interceptions, best among all freshmen nationally, and Brian Mance had six in an All-America season. The defense was one of the most improved units in the ACC and ranked in the top 10 in the nation in interceptions (21).

Clemson had another record-setting season in 2001, a season that culminated with a Humanitarian Bowl victory over Louisiana Tech. Clemson set school records for points scored, touchdowns, and total offense in a bowl game in the victory. The Tigers threw five touchdown passes, a record for any Clemson game.

It was a record-breaking performance for the Tigers in Boise, ID, something that surprised no one who has followed the Tigers in the last five seasons. In that short period of time (1999-2001), Clemson set over 125 school records on an individual and team basis under Bowden. Four of the top six total-offense seasons in school history have been recorded under Bowden, including the 2001 season when Clemson averaged over 30 points and a school-record 432 yards of total offense per game.

The 2001 season demonstrated Bowden's ability to win in the long run, as he had the second-youngest "two-deep" in the ACC. Thirty-four of his top 44 players were underclassmen. Only Duke had a younger group of top 44 players. Fourteen different freshmen saw action in 2001, including 10 who played in at least 10 games.

Bowden has achieved his success against a tough schedule. His first year, Clemson's schedule was ranked in the top 10 in the nation. In 2001, his team defeated five teams that finished the season with a winning record, tied for the third-highest single-season figure in school history. One of the victories was a 47-44 overtime triumph at #9 Georgia Tech. It was the highest-ranked road win in 20 years for the Clemson program. In 2003 and 2004, Clemson's schedule strength again ranked in the top 25 by the Sagarin rating.

When Bowden came to Clemson in 1998, he inherited a team with a 3-8 record. By late October of 2000, just 14 months after his first game, Clemson was ranked third in the nation in the USA Today poll after an 8-0 start. That ranking was the highest for the program in 16 years. The final #14 ranking in that same poll was the highest final listing for the program since the 1990 season.

Making a swift improvement is nothing new for Bowden. In 1997, he took over a 4-7 Tulane program and brought the Green Wave to a 7-4 mark in his first year. In 1998, the improvement continued with an 11-0 regular season and #7 national ranking. In 1999, Bowden elevated the Tigers from 3-8 to a bowl game and a 6-6 final record. The 2000 Tigers concluded the season with a 9-3 record, its highest win total since 1993.

As one can see, considerable improvement is a common phrase for Bowden-coached teams. In each of his first four years he coached at the Division I level, his team showed at least a three-win improvement over the previous year, believed to be a first in Division I college football history. Bowden is just the third coach in Clemson history to bring the Tigers to a three-win improvement in consecutive years and was one of just two Division I coaches (John Robinson of UNLV) to do it over the 1999 and 2000 seasons.

In 2000 and 2001, his dynamic offense produced a Heisman Trophy contender in quarterback Woodrow Dantzler, who placed his name next to 52 school records as the Tigers' signal-caller. The hefty total included eight single-game marks, 23 season records, and 22 career records. He became the school's career leader in total offense, completions, passing yards, and touchdown responsibility. Current Clemson quarterback Charlie Whitehurst has eclipsed the passing yardage total and completion figure since Dantzler's graduation.

Dantzler became the first quarterback in Division I history to accumulate 2,000 yards passing and 1,000 yards rushing in a single season, and was named a semifinalist for the Davey O'Brien Award in 2000 and 2001.

Center Kyle Young was a finalist for the Rimington Award in 2000 and 2001, and won the ACC's Jim Tatum Award, presented to the league's top student-athlete in 2001. He was one of eight players nationally to receive a National Football Foundation Scholarship and became just the second offensive lineman in college football history to become a three-time first-team Academic All-American. Linebacker Chad Carson also performed well in the classroom and on the gridiron. He and Young were first-team Academic All-America selections in 2000 and 2001.

Bowden's second Clemson team was one of the most decorated in history. Six different Clemson players were finalists or semifinalist for national position awards, including linebacker Keith Adams, who was one of the final three finalists for the Butkus Award.

Young and Carson were both named first-team Academic All-Americans, making Clemson the only Division I-A school in the nation to have a pair of first-team selections. For the second straight year, the football team had its highest team GPA on record in 2001 and a record number of ACC Academic honor-roll recipients. Nineteen of the 22 seniors on the 2001 team earned their degrees. The top-five semester GPAs on record have taken place under his 11-semester watch. Carson brought pride to the entire University in 2002 when he reached the final stage of the Rhodes Scholarship selection process, the only Division I college football player to hold that distinction.

When Bowden came to Clemson, he had one simple goal - improvement. Bowden warned Clemson supporters that the Tigers were unlikely to be bowl participants in 1999, but his main focus was to improve. Bowden's goal of improvement was reached and he was happy to be wrong about his preseason prediction, as the Tigers were invited to the 1999 Chick-Fil-A Peach Bowl.

In 1999, Bowden accomplished a personal milestone that no Clemson coach had attained since 1981, the year the Tigers won the National Championship. He became the first Clemson coach since Danny Ford (1983) to be named ACC Coach-of-the-Year.

Bowden led the Tigers to a 6-6 record and 5-3 mark in the ACC against the nation's seventh-toughest schedule according to the Sagarin rating. The Tigers finished tied for second with Georgia Tech and Virginia in the final conference standings, a six-place improvement over the previous season, the greatest one-season jump in ACC history in league play.

The Tigers also made a four-game ACC-win improvement in 1999. It was just the fifth time in ACC history that a team made that big of a league victory jump. Bowden had taken over a team with a losing record and brought it to a bowl game in his first season, just the sixth coach in ACC history to accomplish that feat.

The Clemson program set or tied 41 school records in Bowden's first year, including 26 on offense. Ironically, Bowden's first Tulane team set or tied 26 offensive school records.

The improvements in the ACC standings were thanks in large part to an innovative offensive attack. The Clemson offense ended the season averaging 402.6 yards per game, nearly a 100-yard per game improvement over 1998. The Tigers scored 26.8 points per game in 1999 compared to 19.8 in 1998. Clemson's 42 touchdowns in 1999 ranked fifth best in school history.

Tommy Bowden has guided Clemson to bowl eligibility in each of his six seasons as the head coach at Clemson. During that time he has compiled a 44-29 record.

Under Bowden, Clemson continued its strong defensive tradition. With 47 sacks, Clemson was first in the ACC in that category for the second-straight season, and the final total established a school record. Three players (Adams - 15.5, Carson - 12.0, Robert Carswell - 10.8) all had nearly 11 tackles per game in 1999 to rank among the top-four tacklers in the league.

Adams, a sophomore that season, finished with 186 tackles, highest in the nation, and broke the Clemson single-season tackle record held by Anthony Simmons. They all contributed to the 17th-best pass efficiency defense in the nation, a unit that had 19 interceptions, ninth highest in the country.

Thanks to the wide-open offensive attack, several Clemson players made their presence felt in the national rankings and the Clemson record book. Junior wide receiver Rod Gardner became the school's first 1,000-yard receiver. Gardner had 80 receptions for 1,084 yards, Tiger single-season records in both areas. He was 17th in the nation in receptions per game, with a 6.6 mark. He had another 1,000-yard season in 2000 when he was a first-round draft choice of the Washington Redskins.

Hamilton also made a name for himself in the Tiger record book. In just three seasons, he set the all-purpose yardage, kickoff return yardage, and total receptions record for a career.

For the first time in Clemson history, two Tiger quarterbacks threw for more than 1,000 yards in a season. Dantzler passed for 1,506 yards, while Brandon Streeter passed for 1,466 yards during the season. The two diametrically opposite quarterbacks had total-offense games of more than 350 yards, a testimony to Bowden's offensive system.

Four of Clemson's losses in 1999 came against teams ranked in the top 15 of the final AP poll. Bowden Bowl I, the first ever meeting between father and son head coaches in college football history, took place on October 23, 1999. Bowden faced his father Bobby's top-ranked Florida State team in Death Valley in front of a national television audience. The Tigers lost a tough battle to the eventual National Champions, 17-14, the closest margin of victory for the Seminoles and the fewest points they recorded all season by two touchdowns.

Making strong improvement in his first year with a program was nothing new for Bowden. In the two seasons he was the head coach at Tulane, Bowden took a team that had been 4-18 in the two years previous to his arrival, and emotionally and numerically reversed the team's fortunes with an 18-4 record, posted an 11-1 conference mark, and finished the 1998 season ranked seventh in the nation by both polls. Tulane and Tennessee were the only undefeated teams in college football in 1998.

His Tulane team had a 22-game average of 39.7 points, 5.1 touchdowns, 463 yards of total offense, 270.5 yards passing, and 192.6 yards rushing. The Green Wave averaged 6.34 yards per play, and converted on third down 47 percent of the time. Some say the most telling statistic in terms of wins and losses, and the most telling statistic when it comes to coaching ability is turnover margin. The Green Wave ranked fifth in the nation in turnover margin each of his seasons at Tulane.

It did not take Bowden long to put Tulane back on the college football landscape. In his first year, Tulane was picked last in the preseason polls of Conference USA. But he led the New Orleans-based school to a 7-4 record, a second-place conference standing with just one league loss, and set 33 school records in the process, including 26 on offense.

Tulane's accomplishments on offense were noteworthy in 1997, but its offensive charts reached uncharted areas in 1998. Tulane stood as the only school in the nation that averaged over 300 yards per game passing and 200 yards per game rushing. The team ranked fourth in the nation in total offense (507.1 per game) and second in scoring (45.4 points per game).

The Green Wave scored 40 or more points in eight contests in 1998, including each of the last seven games. In one game, the Green Wave scored 72 points and rolled up 704 yards of total offense. They converted 52 percent of their third-down opportunities for the season and had just 11 turnovers in over 800 plays. The 1998 season saw the program post a perfect 11-0 regular season under Bowden, its first perfect regular season since 1931. The Green Wave won Conference USA, its first league title since Tulane won the SEC in 1949. Bowden was named Conference USA Coach-of-the-Year.

Bowden's team ranked seventh in the final AP poll and was a mainstay in the polls from the third week of the season on. Tulane had not been ranked at any time since 1979, and had not been ranked in a final poll since 1973. After Bowden accepted the job at Clemson, Tulane defeated Brigham Young in the Liberty Bowl, 41-27.

A look to the list of coaches who had undefeated seasons in the 1990s shows two other men named Bowden. His father, Florida State Head Coach Bobby Bowden, had a perfect regular season in 1996 and 1999, while his brother, Terry, posted a perfect regular season in 1993. Obviously, the Bowdens are the first family of college coaching and this "Wonder Years" environment had a lot to do with Tommy Bowden's decision to enter coaching.

The fatherly influence of a college coach who reached 300 career wins against his son in 1999, also had an influence on other members of the family. Bobby Bowden is the winningest coach in Division I history. Terry has been a head coach at Samford and Auburn, posting a 47-17-1 record at the latter. Terry serves as an commentator for ABC's college football package. Jeff Bowden is in his 10th season as an assistant coach at Florida State.

Tommy Bowden began his college football experience as a walk-on wide receiver at West Virginia. He played for his father between 1973-75 and then for Frank Signetti during the 1976 season.

As a junior, he caught 15 passes for 189 yards and one score. Bowden remained at West Virginia for the 1977 season and began his coaching career, serving as a graduate assistant on Signetti's staff. His interest in coaching only became more intense after that first year as a graduate assistant. His father then hired him as a secondary coach at Florida State for the 1978 season.

That experience confirmed to Bowden that he was in a profession that would be his life's work. The Seminoles posted a 19-4 mark in his two seasons at Florida State.

In 1980, Bowden joined the staff at East Carolina, where he coached for the spring-practice session of 1980. That spring, he moved to Auburn and served as the Tigers running backs coach for the 1980 season. Among the players he coached was James Brooks, who went on to a 13-year NFL career and is still second in Auburn history in rushing.

In 1981, Bowden returned to Tallahassee as the tight ends coach. In two more years at Florida State, the Seminoles posted a 15-8 mark. The 1982 team ranked #13 in the final poll, claimed a 9-3 record, and won a Gator Bowl championship.

From 1983-86, Bowden served under Steve Sloan at Duke as the Blue Devils' quarterbacks coach. He was named coordinator in 1985. It was as a Duke assistant that Bowden made his first trip to Death Valley as a coach. Among the players Bowden tutored was Anthony Dilweg, who went on to the NFL.

After four years at Duke, Bowden became the wide receivers coach at Alabama under Bill Curry. It was there that Bowden refined his offensive coaching prowess under noted offensive mind Homer Smith, then the Tide offensive coordinator.

In 1990, Bowden returned to a coordinator role, serving Kentucky as its offensive coordinator and wide receivers coach. That season, he helped the Wildcats to their first upper division SEC finish since 1984.

In 1991, Bowden joined Pat Dye at Auburn. He would remain with Auburn for six seasons, his longest stint as a college assistant coach. During his tenure, Auburn had a combined record of 46-20-2, including a perfect 11-0 season in 1993. Auburn had four Associated Press top-25 seasons, including a #4 final ranking in 1993 and a #9 final ranking in 1994. The SEC Tigers were 20-1-1 in 1993-94 combined. Bowden worked under his brother, Terry, for his last four years at Auburn and the Tigers had a 36-9-1 record with both Bowdens on the coaching staff.

Born on July 10, 1954 in Birmingham, AL, Bowden is married to the former Linda Joan White, who he first met when the two were in school together at Morgantown (WV) High. The couple has two children, Ryan (23), a 2004 Clemson graduate, and Lauren (20), a sophomore at Clemson.

Overview: Looks to move into the starting lineup at the Bandit position, an important position in new defensive coordinator Vic Koenning's alignment...one of the more agile defensive linemen in the ACC...started one game in 2004, the Texas A&M game, and played in all 11 contests...missed just one game in his two years with the Tigers...had 35 tackles, including eight tackles for loss, five of which were sacks in 2004...tied for second on the club in sacks...also a strong contributor on special teams, he had two blocked punts, one against Utah State that resulted in a Clemson touchdown, and one against South Carolina...had at least one tackle in every game, including a season high six stops in the opener against Wake Forest...had two sacks to go with the blocked punt against Utah State...named Clemson's special teams player of the week for that performance against Utah State...11th on the team in tackles overall, he was second among non-starters...had at least one tackle for loss in seven of the 11 games...started just one game but played at least 21 snaps in every contest...has 50 tackles in two years, 12 of which have been tackles for loss, so he makes big plays...also has six passes deflected at the line of scrimmage thanks to his 6-5 frame...playing time and stats doubled over his freshman year, he went from 15 tackles to 35 last year...won the 12th man award for the Clemson defense in 2004, the honor given to the top non-starter over the course of the season...has never had an interception, he might have the opportunity at his new position, which will include pass coverage responsibilities.

Prior to 2004: Second-team defensive end as a freshman in 2003 when he had 15 tackles in 12 games...four of his 15 tackles were behind the line of scrimmage...had his best game in the win over #3 Florida State when he had four tackles, including two for loss and one of those was a sack...played season high 27 snaps in the Peach Bowl win over Tennessee...played at least 20 snaps in five of the last seven games after not playing on defense in any of the first three games...played the 2001 season at Fork Union Prep where he had 22 sacks in 10 games...three-year starter at Cambridge Academy where he played eight-man football for former South Carolina quarterback Steve Taneyhill...had 158 career receptions for 4,394 yards as a receiver in high school.

Whitehurst All-Time Passing Yardage Leader

Clemson quarterback Charlie Whitehurst became Clemson's career leader in completions in the Texas A&M game. He had 20 completions in that contest (third consecutive game with exactly 20) and now has 588 for his career entering the 2005 season.

Whitehurst established another Clemson career record at Virginia when he became Clemson's career passing yardage leader. Whitehurst completed 16-28 passes for 166 yards to surpass Dantzler's record of 6037. Whitehurst now has 7182 passing yards for his career, more than any other active ACC Quarterback.

The next record in range is the touchdown pass record. Whitehurst now has 38 for his career at Clemson, second in Clemson history behind Dantzler's 41.

Whitehurst owns 34 Clemson records. He became Clemson's career leader in passing attempts at Florida State and now has 1028. Whitehurst is second in school history in terms of total offense with 7254, trailing only Dantzler (8798), so he needs just 1545 in 2005 to surpass his former teammate.

Special Teams Were Special in 2004

- Clemson ranked in the top 25 in the nation in punt returns and kickoff returns. Clemson averaged 26.3 yards per kickoff return, third best in Division I-A and 12.03 yards per punt return, 24th best in the nation.
- Clemson punt return coverage was solid. It demonstrated this against Utah State, who had the nation's top punt returner in Kevin Robinson entering the game. He had a 36-yard average coming into the game, but had two returns for one yard against the Tigers. It was solid again against Maryland as the Tigers held Steve Suito, the ACC's career punt return leader to three yards or less on four of his six returns. Clemson then held Devin Hester to 11 total kick return yards in its win in Miami on Nov. 6.
- Clemson blocked four punts in 2004, the most by a Clemson team since the 1997 team had four. The 1989 team also had four and the overall school record is five by the 1944 team. All four blocked punts resulted in scores, two safeties and two touchdowns.

- Clemson had two kickoff returns for touchdowns, three punt returns for touchdown (two of which were on blocks) and two safeties for a total of 34 points scored off special teams in 2004. This was a Clemson single season record for points off special teams, a record that was broken in just the first six games of the season. This is the first Clemson team in history to have five kick returns for touchdowns, three punt and two kickoff. (Statistically, the blocked punt for a touchdown counts as a punt return).

- Kickoff man Jad Dean had 50 kickoffs in 2004 and 25 touchbacks. Thirty-four of his 50 kickoffs were not returned past the 20 yard-line and the average starting field position after the kickoff for the Clemson opposition was its own 22. The average start for Clemson after a kickoff was its own 31, a nine-yard advantage for the Tigers.

- Punter Cole Chason had a 40.2-yard average and 18 of his 66 punts were inside the 20. He had a career best 45-yard average against Maryland, including eight consecutive punts of 42 yards or more.

Clemson Record by Uniform

Clemson has used many uniform combinations over the last six years. Clemson wore purple jerseys with orange pants against Maryland NC State and South Carolina in 2004 and the Tigers had a perfect record in that attire. In fact, Clemson is 4-0 in that combination under Tommy Bowden.

In 2003, the Tigers broke out purple jerseys for the Georgia Tech game in Atlanta on September 20 and the Tigers gained a 39-3 victory. It was the first time Clemson had worn purple jerseys since the 1991 season when Clemson wore them in a regular season game against NC State and for a bowl game against California.

Clemson has had seven jersey/pant combinations since Tommy Bowden came to Clemson.

Tigers 5-0 in Overtime

Clemson increased its all-time perfect record in overtime games to 5-0 with its 24-17 win over Miami last year. It was the second overtime win of the year for the Tigers, who defeated Wake Forest 37-30 in two overtimes to open the season.

Clemson is now the all-time NCAA leader in terms of perfect record in overtime. Clemson is the only 5-0 overtime team among the 117 Division I teams. BYU, Louisiana Monroe, Northern Illinois and South Florida are all 4-0 all-time, while Nebraska and Michigan are both 3-0.

Clemson's win over Wake Forest in the opener was a double overtime affair, the first time Clemson has had to go a second "extra inning" to claim an overtime win.

Both Clemson and Wake Forest kicked field goals in the first period, then Clemson scored a touchdown on an 11-yard pass from Charlie Whitehurst to Kyle Browning. Wake Forest could not get a first down on its possession and when a fourth down pass fell incomplete, Clemson had the victory.

Clemson's defense has been outstanding in Clemson's five overtime games. In fact, the Tigers have yielded just nine points on three field goals and the opposition has recorded just one first down. Miami got a first down in the game on November 6, the first opponent to do that in six overtime periods against the Tigers.

There is something about overtime and Clemson athletics. The Clemson basketball team has a 45-32 record in overtime games since the ACC started in 1954-54, second best among league schools in overtime winning percentage.

2005 Schedule

Clemson will play host to probable preseason top 25 teams Texas A&M, Miami (FL), Florida State and Boston College during the 2005 football season.

Clemson opens the season on Saturday, September 3 when Texas A&M comes to Clemson for the first time since 1973. The Tigers will be looking to avenge last year's 27-6 loss in College Station. Dennis Franchione's team was one of the most improved teams in the nation in 2004. It will be just the fourth all-time meeting between the two schools.

Three of Clemson's first four games will be at home this year. After a trip to Maryland for the ACC opener on September 10 (Clemson's earliest road game at College Park in history) the Tigers have back-to-back home games with Miami (FL) and Boston College. Both teams won nine games, including bowl victories last year. Boston College won a bowl game for the fifth consecutive year, the only school in the nation that can make that claim.

Clemson defeated a 10th ranked Hurricane team at Miami last year, 24-17 in overtime. It was Clemson's third win over a top 10 team in the last two years.

This will be Clemson's first game with Boston College since 1983 when the Eagles defeated Clemson 31-16 in Boston. That was Clemson's only loss during a 9-1-1 season under Danny Ford. The two teams met at Clemson in 1982 and the game ended in a 17-17 tie. That Clemson team also went on to a 9-1-1 record and won the ACC Championships. Doug Flutie was the quarterback for Boston College in both games.

Clemson and Boston College have a history that dates to the 1939 season. The Tigers met a Boston College team coached by Frank Leahy in the 1940 Cotton Bowl in Dallas and the Tigers came away with a 6-3 victory behind All-American Banks McFadden. The Tigers have a 7-5-2 lead in the series overall.

Clemson will have back-to-back road games to open the month of October. Clemson plays at Wake Forest on October 1. The Tigers won in double overtime against the Demon Deacons at Clemson last year, 37-30, but lost in the most recent meeting between the two schools in Winston-Salem, Clemson's last loss of the 2003 season.

Clemson and Boston College will play for the first time since the 1983 season. Tiger lineman William DeVane chased current NFL quarterback Doug Flutie around that night.

Clemson 2005 Schedule
Date	Opponent	Special Event
Sept. 3	TEXAS A&M	Military Appreciation
Sept. 10	at Maryland
Sept. 17	MIAMI (FL)	Hall of Fame/IPTAY Day
Sept. 24	BOSTON COLLEGE	Family Weekend
Oct. 1	at Wake Forest
Oct. 13	at N.C. State	ESPN Thursday Night Game
Oct. 22	TEMPLE	Youth Day
Oct. 29	at Georgia Tech
Nov. 5	DUKE	Homecoming
Nov. 12	FLORIDA STATE
Nov. 19	at South Carolina

Clemson will play at NC State on Thursday evening, October 13. This will be the second straight time in Raleigh and the third time in the last four years that Clemson has played against the Wolfpack in a nationally televised night game. The Pack defeated Clemson, 17-15, in Raleigh on a Thursday evening in 2003, but Clemson came back to gain a 26-20 win at Clemson last year on a Saturday afternoon when returning defensive end Charles Bennett had an interception at the goal line on the last play of the game. Seven of the last eight meetings between Clemson and NC State have been decided by eight points or less.

Clemson will take on Temple on October 22 at Death Valley. It will be the first meeting between the two schools since the 1991 season when Clemson gained a 37-7 victory.

The Tigers will travel to Georgia Tech on October 29 as the two schools continue one of the great ACC rivalries. Tech gained a four-point win at Clemson last year, but the Tigers won the last meeting in Atlanta, 39-3 during the 2003 season. Clemson has actually gained victory in its last three trips to Atlanta, as the Tigers also defeated Tennessee 27-14 in the 2003 Chick-Fil-A Peach Bowl at the Georgia Dome and also defeated a top 10 Georgia Tech team behind Woody Dantzler in 2001.

Clemson has three games in the month of November, including two home conference games. The Tigers will be looking to gain victory over both Duke and Florida State after road losses to both institutions during the 2004 season. Clemson upset a third-ranked Florida State team, 26-10 the last time Bobby Bowden brought his team to Clemson in 2003. Clemson has not lost at home to Duke since 1980.

The season concludes with the annual state rivalry game at South Carolina on November 19. Clemson has won seven of the last eight games with South Carolina, including five out of six under Tommy Bowden.

"This might be the toughest home schedule in Clemson history," said Bowden. "We could play three top 25 teams at home in the first month of the season, something that has never happened in Clemson history. It should be a great atmosphere in Death Valley all season.

"Opening the season with Texas A&M will certainly be a challenge. We will have to play at a high level from the outset of the season. They defeated us last year and certainly must be considered among the programs on the rise under Coach (Dennis) Franchione.

"We have consistently played a top 25 schedule according to the computer rankings since I have been at Clemson. Our players and coaches look forward to the challenge."

Clemson will not play conference schools Virginia, Virginia Tech or North Carolina. Clemson has consecutive Saturdays, October 8 and 15 open.
